Its a remake of the 2002 hit film The Shooter. The film is produced by Vivek Oberoi's Oberoi Studios & Vishesh Films. Plot The film opens with police commissioner Hemant Gaitonde walking with a watchful eye, as he turns and sees a terrorist enter a van to shoot his hostages. It is revealed that the terrorist, Karan Patel (Kangana Ranaut), is being trained by Gaitonde's father, Inspector Raj Kumar (Rajat Kapoor), as his son had been caught red-handed being smuggled explosives to the family's ancestral village. The film shifts to some time in the past. It is now revealed that Karan was an orphan, who grew up in the custody of his Aunt (Tusshar Kapoor). It is also shown that his biological mother is named Dr. Naina Gupta (Kangana Ranaut), and that he is very attached to her. Karan rebels and escapes from custody. He meets Riya (Sonu Sood), a former accomplice of his father's, in a Mumbai slum. There, Karan learns that his father had been kidnapped, and was forced to accept bribes to protect his life. Karan decides to take revenge on his father's captors, and steals a gun. He attempts to kill Naina and her husband, Raj Kumar, but in a moment of confusion, his weapon is stolen from him. Raj flees with Naina, and Karan chases them into the Mumbra area. He murders a local police officer, who has given Raj a fake identity, by luring him into a trap. Raj is forced to flee with Naina, but they are captured by men posing as police officers. Karan shoots one of them, an assassin called Munna (Anil Kapoor), then reveals to Raj that he is actually his son. He takes Raj hostage and leaves to find Riya. Naina and Raj Kumar disguise themselves as a couple and travel by train to Udaipur, India. There, they meet Munna's father, a large criminal. When they find out that Munna is looking for Karan, they help him find his brother, and Munna takes them to him. Karan soon finds them and kills Munna, then uses his knife to carve the word "killer" on Raj's chest. Karan takes Raj to his school, where Naina and Raj Kumar are waiting 82157476af
